SIXTY-FOUR YEARS MARRIED
 Anniversary celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. W. Wallace

An unbroken family circle gather at the home of their parents today – Were married in Palermo by the Rev. Joseph Parks in 1847.

Fulton, March 24, 1911 – Today is a wonderful day for Mr and Mrs. William Wallace, for with their unbroken circle of relatives, they are celebrating the sixty-fourth anniversary of their marriage at their home, 513 Buffalo Street, this city. On March 24, 1847, at the parsonage of the Rev. Joseph Parks in Palermo, William Wallace married Eunice Whitmore, of that town, and today these old people are celebrating with their four sons and with as many of the members of the families of the sons as can find it possible to get here.

Glenn, son of William Wallace, of Palermo, is a student at Cornell University and Erwin, Ethel and Belle, son and daughters of Witt P. Wallace, are teachers in the St. Louis, Sidney and Wolcott schools respectively; and will be unable to be present, but the sons of the aged couple, Willard Wallace of Palermo, Dr. Winfield Wallace of Phoenix, Whit P. Wallace of Oswego, and Grant Wallace of Fulton, will be present with their wives, while Dr. George Wallace of Minetto, son of Willard Wallace with his wife and two daughters Ella and Helen; Mrs. Fred Bradford of East Palermo, daughter of Dr. Winfield Wallace of Phoenix, with her husband; Elwin Wallace, Claude Wallace, Tracy Wallace, Edward Wallace, Jesse Wallace and Leah Wallace, sons and daughter of Grant Wallace of Fulton, with the wives of Elwin and Claude and the sons of the same, Roy and Carl respectively are present to help in the celebration.

A dinner was served early this afternoon and a social time will be spent throughout the day. Mr. Wallace was eighty-five on December 31st last while Mrs. Wallace was eight on June 17th last both they are both in good health and never has there been a death in their family. Three years ago, Mr. Wallace suffered two slight paralytic strokes but they seem to have affected him little.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace lived practically all their life in Palermo, up to four years ago when he retired. He worked for his education and later became a successful farmer.

In his long life, he accumulated much property, and as each of his sons came to man, he set them up in business or in the life's pursuit to which he felt himself called. Willard became a farmer and now occupies the old homestead farm in Palermo. Dr. Winfield became a veterinarian and set himself up in Phoenix, Witt P. entered the book business in Oswego, while Grant remains in Fulton keeping a watchful eye on his parents. "My boys never quarreled", says the old man. "We were a peaceful family and one of good habits, my use of tobacco being the only habit in the family. My boys do not smoke, never drink or swear, and never did. I chew, but do none of the other things. I have always been a Prohibitionist."
